Ratification of Yap Treaty Indicates Other Pacts Will Go Through Senate.

Fight to Modify Votstead Act Begun by Federation of Labor-New Plan to Finance Bonus-President Asks Congress for Ship Subsidy.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

N THE preliminary boots of the I treaty fight in the senate the administration has scored victories which lend Senator Lodge and others to prediet certain triumph in the main contest over the four power Pacific pact, ss well as in the other buits.

Expression of this confidence came after the senate, on Wednesday, had rallfied the treaty with Japan concerning Yage Title is not properly one of the Washington conference series of treaties, fort its acceptance was conaddered necessary before action is taken on the other Pacific treatles. It puls an erol to the dispute between thin country and Japan by recognizing the Japanese mundate over Yap and at the same time seeming America's cable rights there.

The find vide on the Yap pact was 67 to 22 and was preceded by the voting down of a number of reservations which certain Denmeratic senators thought necessary to make American rights on the tstand entirely secure Thirleen Democrats voted for ralification, and three Republicans-Bornh. France and Johnson-against it. Although the administration forces said they were entirely satisfied with the vole, the "trreconcliables" also professed to be juidlant. The latter asseried they had made small effort to defeat this treat? and that they were cooffdeot they could muster enough more votes to lent the four power pact.

On motion of Senator Lodge the senate immediately look up the fourpower treat), and the indications were that the delacte on that would hist several weeks. As it was reported to the senale by the committee on foreign relations, it carries but the one innocuous interpretative reservation that was approved by President Harding.

To Bornh, Johnson, France and a few other senstors might well be appiled a sentence from one of the late Ambassador Page's letters during the war: "In the l'nifed States we liedown every night to George Washingion's feather bed of no entangling alliances" Initing the debate Borah decleared he would support the You trealy if he could be sure that it would get rid of America's one lifth Interest In the nomitated Islands of the south 800 B.

This mention of prohibition tends one to venture the personal againion that if there is any force that can bring alout the medification of the Volstend act so that the country will once nore have its beer and light wines, that force has just been set to motion. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has taken unathis cause and seeks to make of it a political issue in the forthcoming congressional empaign. It issued a declaration in which the Voistend enforcement act is denounced a moral fullure and a dangerous breeder of discontent and contempt for law, and which concludes:

"We urgo that oil citizens in every walk of tile denmind from their representulives and senutors in Washington Immediate rebef from the unwarranted restriction contained in the Volstend net; and we likewise suggest to the citizenship of our country the wisdom and advisability of learing in tolad the attitude toward this issue of office holders and aspirates to office in coming elections in order that there may he restored to the people the howful use of wholesome beer and light wines, which, under the provisions of the eighteenth amendment can and should be rightfully declared as non intexicating beverages."

The executive connell asserts it holds "that the eighteenth amendment under a reasonable and proper legistallye interpretation would be benefit ctul to our country and would have the support of the great tonjority of our people," But the connell says an ex-(Continued on Page Two)

STADIUM WORK HALTED

Subscribers To Ohio State Structure Fail To Live Up To Pledgen

Columbus - Construction of the athietle stadinto at Ohio State l'ulversity may be held up unless additional funds are forthcoming, it was said today. The crists comes in June, when the contractors present chins for $139,260, and for which there is no money to pay them. The needed amount has been pledged by subscribers throughout the state, but on account of their failure to pay up the situation points to a suspension of work and the fallure to have the studhim Unished for fall. The third installment on subscriptions was due in Jannary. The final payment is due in July "Crossing the June financial shoulds therefore, the end toward which we must bend present efforts," declared Carl S. Steeb, Trensurer of the stadhim fund. "If we can keep the contractors on the Jole throught June, payments of final histallments will come to the rescue in July, but the overline pledges must be publ-up if this is to be accomplished "

The trenty between the United States and Japan settling the controversy over the Island of Yap has been ratified by the senate. This is just a forcrunner of the larger treaties. The island concerned formerly belonged to Germany and was taken by Jnpnn during the war. It is so located as to make it important in helping or hindering our wireless connection with the l'hilippines. We tried at first to get the Island, then agreed to a concession for wireless plant, and now hy the treaty agree to construct no plant of our own as long as Japan keeps one up and renders sntisfactory service. The only objection raised to the treaty was the indefiniteness in regard to the one who may decide when the service is unsatisfactory.

> A curious and interesting question has arisen out of a request made by the Governor of North Carolina for the extradition of a negro charged with murder, who escaped to Canada. In the first place, the State made the request direct rather than thru the Federal Government. In the second place, the Canadian Government is not disposed to return the negro unless a good case can be made against him and requests what is equivalent of a trial on Canadian soil. North Carolina resents this as a reflection on her courts. What the attitude of the National Government will be has not yet appeared. It is likely to be a case that requires deliente handling.

He was old enough, it apyou were sick I better take It and peared, to have been the same thing went surveyed to a person who was now o Married Woman, Ills manner thenceforth showed in pulled trace of serionsics and self-consideration,

Having recovered his equipolse and something more, he entirely forgot that moment of hundle admiration be had felt for Done Younn on the day of his flattest prostrution. When he saw her string in the classroom, smiling brightly up at the teacher, the morning of the school's opening in the autumn, all his humility hold long since vantsted and she appeared to him not offerwise than as the scholar whose complete proficiency find always been so trksome to blm.

"Look at her" he mattered to blin-self "Same de Tencher's Pet!" Now and then, as the days and scasons passed, and Dorn's serem progress continued, never checked or even threed, there stirred within him some Hagerings of the old determination to "show" her; and he would confure men day dream of Dom in land inmentation, while he led the inughter of the spectators. But gradually his feeling about her came to be merely a dull oppression. He was tired of having to look at her (as he stated It) and be thinked the Lord that the time wouldn't be so long now until he'd be out of that ale school, and there all he'd have to do he'd just take enre never to walk by her house. It was casy enough to use some other street when he had to go down town.

"The good ole class of Muetecu-Fourteen is about gone," he said to Fred Mitchell, who was still lds most Intimate filend when they reached the senior year "Ves, sir; it's held together it good many years. Fred, but after June It'll be lasted plum up, and I hope polosty starts a move to have any reuntons. You know, Fred, the thing I think is the one higgest lenetit of graduating from this ole school? It's never seein' Dorn Youtin again."

This was again his theme as he sat by the same friend's side, in the rent. row of the class at Commencement, listening to the delivery of the Vale-"Thinks she's just souldime, lictory. don't she!" he whispered morosely. "She wouldn't trade with the President of the United States right now. Never mind! Just about a half-anhour more and that's the fast o' you, ole girl! Yes, sir, Fred; one thing we can feel pretty good over; this is where we get through with Born Yo-

Hamsey and Fred had arranged to room together at Greenfield, the sent of the state university, and they made the short journey in company the following September. They arrived hitarions, anticipating pleasurable excitements in the way of "fraternity" pledgings and initiations, encounters with sophonores, chiss meetings, and elections; and, also, they were not ab sidutely without interest in the matter of tilris, for the state university was reeducational, and it was lest natural to expect in so broad a field, all new to them, a possible vision of something rather thrilling. They whispered cheerfully of all these things during the process of untribulation, and signed the registrar's book on a fresh; page; but when Fred had written his name under Raiosey's and Idotted it, he took the liberty of turning over the lenf to examine some of the autographs of their future classumites, written on the other side. Then he mitered un exclumation, more droll than dolorous, though it affected to be wholly the latter; for the shock to Fred was by no means so painful as it was to his friend.

Humsey lenned forward and read the name indicated by fred's forefluger.

There were about the funded students in the freshring class, he seldom sow her, and when he shd it was not more than it tubt glippse of her on one of the ciargus paths, her thoughtful lead bent over a look as she harried to a classroom. This was bournide; and in the flattering agitations of being sought, and even hunted, by several "fraternities" simuitaneously desirous of Ids becoming a sworn Brother, he almost forget her. After a linguirdous menth the recommutes fell into the arms of the last "frat" to seek them and having undergone an evening of outrase which concluded with touching rhetoric and an outh taken at mbladght, they proudly wore jeweled symbols on their breasts and were free to tarn part of their attention to other uffairs, especially the uffairs of the Eleven.

However, they were historical by the older brethren of their Order, whose duty it was to assist in the proper timenvering of their young cureers that nithough support of the 'varsity tenins was Important, they must neglect neither the sidritual nor the intellectual by products of undergraduate doings. According to the clarter which it had granted Itself, the "Lumen Sockwies an "Organization of mule 111 and female students"-so "plyanced" was this university-"for the development of the powers of delate and oratory, intellectual and sociological progress, and the discussion of all unit ters relating to philosophy, metaphysles, literature, art, and current events." A statement so formidalde was not without a laishing effect upon Messrs. Millioflatte and Mitchell; they went to their first "farmen" meeting in a state of fear and came away little reassured.

"I couldn't get up there," Ramsey declared. "I couldn't stand up there before all that crowd and make w speech, or delate in a delate, to save my soul and gizzard! Why, I'd just keel right over and haf to be enrried ulli.

"Well, the way I understand it," sold Fred, "we can't get out of it. The seniors in the 'frnt' said we had to tolu, and they sald we couldn't resign, either, after we had joined. They sold we just heal to go through It. and atter a widle we'd get used to it and not mind it so much."

"I will!" Rumsey insisted "I couldn't any more stand me there on my feet and get to spontin' about sociology and the radical metempsychorus of the mettydaysheal bazoozum than I could fly a flyla' nurchine. Why,

"Dh, that wasn't anything," Fred interrupted. "The only one that talked like that, he was that Blickens; he's a tutor, or something, and really a member of the faculty. Most at the

"I don't care. I confdu't do it at all!

"Well, the way it looks to me," Fred observed, "we simply got to! From what they tell me, the freshmen go! to do more than anybody. Every other Friday night, it's all freshmen and nothin' else. You get a postal card on Monday morning in your mail, and it says 'Assignment' on it and-andthen it's got written underneuth what you had to do the next Friday night -cration or debate, or mayie just read from some old look or segerting. KOPEFUL OUTLOOK FOR SHIP SUBSIDY

MIDDLE AND FAR WEST, ALWAYS AGAINST IT, NOW SAID TO BE CHANGING ITS MIND.

MARKET ARGUMENT IS USED

Advocates of Measure Also Urge That Without It the Lakes-to-the-Sea Deep Waterway Wouldn't Help the Country Much.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington The good or otherwise, according to the viewpoint, l'inted States ship subsidy either will go on the rocks or untigge to make the channel of passage in congress before formy tides have client and flowerl. It was eleven years ago last Novem ber that the following paragraph appenred in a Washington dispatch;

"President Taff's open support of it measure which its advocates think will fulfil me on merclant marine scenlugly has given the subsidy cause headway enough to carry it into the channel of passage. There will be militant opposition from the Michile West and from the South tic subsidy In whatever form the legislation shall прреат."

The "militant opposition" from the Middle West, West and South prevented the passage of a ship salesldy bill in President Taft's time just as had prevented it in the thoes of other Presidents. This year the sale sldy advocates say they believe that the West, to some extent, has been ever, there has come opposithm to Won to the cause of subshity and that a ldll, along the lines recommended President has suggested the general by the shipping board and inforsed by the f'resident, is pretty certain before long to become the law of the land.

Phulman Albert D. Lasker of the shipping loard las maintained that "in due course national aid to private slapping should result in the government's retirement from operation, so that ultimately no increased drain on the trensury would be involved, and through profitable private operation, permanency would be insured in our merchant marine, private initiative congressmen are being told that a and enterprise would be inspired, and the government would find customers for its large fleet of ships."

Argument for the Farmer, The subsidy advocates seem to be cheerful today, but cheerfulness with them is an old story, and it may be that disappointment will meet them in the future, as it has met them in the past, but it can be said that there are some Indications that the representatives in congress of the agricultural districts do not seem to be as determined In their opposition to a ship subsidy, as once they were. The plea is made that increased marketing opportunities will come if the government subsidizes shipping companies and that the Increase in the trade with new markets and the profits therefrom will more than balance the taxnilon made necessary by the subsidizing of the marine industry.

Deep-Sea Waterway Involved.

So it is that congress is to be asked to grant subsidies for shipping companies that will eimble them to take over such government vessels as are sen-comfittoned, to pay the scale of wices denianded by American marithire law and to enter into new trading relations with the parts of the world.

Shipping men argue that the country will not gain much by a deep-sen waterway from the lakes to the Atlantle ocenn unless subsidy legislation is enneted. They say that foreign vessels will get the trade that should go to American vessels and that the increused prosperity which would come otherwise will not be in evidence. This lake-to-the-sen waterway argument is being used in Washington to-

The United States government has hundreds of ships lying bile. This much everyhooly knows. The shipping hourd vision sees all these vessels plying the sea, opening up new trade posts, stimulating new manufacturing and agricultural industries in the Unit ed States, and doing other things congenful to a business-willing country it may be that if the subshly bill is pussed the vision never will material ize, and again it may be that there tions. will be no subsidy legislation to give it n chance to take shape, form or sul-

May Adjourn Early in June. The majority lender of the house of representatives, Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming, believes that con gress will get through with its work and be ready for adjournment by the plane tuned, it is probthe first week in June. ally time that congress can get through with its work by the first of lime, but whether it will get through with it or not is mother matter.

it was suggested to Mr. Mondell by the writer that there was in the path n somewhat forladding bill of work. He admitted the hill, last denied that It was forbidding. He says that the appropriation little are in good prelimlinery shape and that the other legis-Intion outlined will be passed with no great amount of trouble. The house lender thinks that with the treaties and the turlff out of the senate's way, all other things speedly will be neremnied for.

this iloes not like to take Issue with such an authority on matters as the leader of the amfority in the house of representatives, and one does not take Issue with him in the matter of the sincerity of his belief that comgress will adjourn about the time of the advent of the month of roses; but looking buck through the history of congresses during the last twelve or function years, it is found that the best hild plans and scendingly the hest based thoughts of the tenders generally have gone wrong, However, there have been preliminary and reassuring words from certain senators who it was thought would oppose the trenties, and therefore the most forinfilible obstitele of progress perhaps mny he accounted as eliminated-but still one never can tell.

Bonus Bill Troubles.

A binnis bill is going through at this session or the next one. Already, us has been made clear prior to this time, certain taxation plans were agreed upon by the house ways and ments committee through which and by which money to pny the ex-service men was to be raised. Recently, howthis illrect form of taxation, and the sales tax plan, which has almost been discurded as impresible of passage.

Politicians are interested somewhat in speculation as to just what the Republican and thenneratic campaigners will say in the preliminaries of the coming congressional contest concerning this bonns mutter. Two great organizations of torsiness men of the United States, the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers, are against the bonus legislation. The grent hody of voters, lucluding some ex-service men, are uguinst the legislitten. The general hellef of politichns, however, is that greater party support can be secured by the passage of the boats bill than by defenting the mensure.

Service men are objecting strongly to the constantly made statements that the special taxes, or a boul issue, are to be nuthorized "in order to satisfy the service men." The former soldiers do not like this way of putting it, because they hidd that the delit to them is a just one and that it is not right constantly to tell the tuxpayer that the dally penny or pennies that he is putting out would be saved to him if it were not for the soldiers' insistence on a hours, Members of congress are willing to mimit timt there is some justiticution for the complaint of the men who served.

Cannon Will Retire.

Uncle Joe Cummin, one time Fur West that the administration is called by his political opponents "czar of the house of representsidy plans. Many of them paid tribute to bim, even in the day when they were thinking on the possibility of ousting lilm from the speaker's chair. They mover succeeded in doing this, last they did succeed in taking away from him and from subsequent speakers of the house the almost haperial power which they held.

If Joseph B. Cunnon of Illinois were to remain unknown because of any of his legislative endoavors, he still would hold place in history as the central tightre in a struggle which has a place in the congressional records for all time.

Cannon lu a way has feere a dual personality. He has combined a certalu rugged, common people slipplicity of life and outlook with a surked menint tendency toward the conservatism of bromletoth. He liked to be known as the champlon of the people, but he suw safety in the apholding of certain institutions which progressivism rightor wrongly thought had money rather than tumblood for their founds.

Kentucky High Schools Debating League

The University of Kentucky last year started a High School Debating League for Kentucky. It was found to be quite a large task to undertake the entire state in addition to the other regniar work of the Extension Department. This year the director asked the Secretary of Bercs College, who is also Superintendent of the College Extension, if he would assume the responsibility of handling the debate work for the 38 counties of Eastern Kentucky. After a meeting in Lexington, the plan was finally agreed upon. The whole of Eastern Kentucky, comprising 38 counties, was turned over to the Extension Department of Berea to be mnnaged as the superintendent deemed best.

This district was subdivided into 5 smaller but natural geographical districts: Big Sandy, with centers at Catlettshurg and Pikeville; the Upper Kentucky River district, contering at Hazard; the Upper Cumberland River district, centering at Pineville; the Knob district, centering at Somerset; and the Border district, centering at Richmond. There will be dehates at Pikesville, Catlettsburg, Harlan, Pineville, Harbourville, London, Somerset, Hazard, and probably Richmond. It is the plan to bring the two winners of the series of tournaments to Herea for a final Eastern Kentucky championship debate. The subject for discussion thruout the entire Stale of Kentucky is emigration. Eighteen schools in the Eastern Kentucky district have already enrolled for the debates, and six others are now under consideration.

This is a great movement, and will be the means of cetting the high schools of Eastern Kentucky in closer touch with each other as well as tying up the patrons of the schools with the interests of their children. The literature for these debates is furnished by the University of Kentucky, as practically the same program is conducted in both Eastern Kentucky and the other sections of the state. If the present rate of progress keeps up. at least 75 percent of the high schools of Eastern Kenutucky should be in the League next year

One Way Out

Everybody who reads the Kentucky papers knows that there is entirely too much crime being committed in the Commonwealth. Everyone who knows a large number of people is well aware that there is an alarmingly high percentage of folk who rarely think of taking the law and the officers of the law seriously. Everyone who has looked into the matter knows that there are numerous officers-sheriffs, judges, clerks, and deputies-who do preclous little to uphold the dignity of the law.

And this crime and contempt for law exist chiefly because we have never entered seriously upon the business of training citizens, and because a large percentage of officers have not always done their full duty. They have relatives and friends, or they are tied up by political obligations, or they can be bought over, or they give notice before going to serve warrants, or they are afraid.

But there are officers who do not exeropt their friends, who are not hamstrung by political or factional alliances, who cannot be bought, who do not use the telephone before starting to make arrests, who are not afraid! These are the men who are making the law mean what it says, and who are putting a stop to crime.

Judge Hiram Johnson, of London, Ky., belongs to this latter class. He was elected circuit judge on a law-and-order platform, and to the great disappointment of the lawless element in his circuit he is standing by his campaign pledges. He has made the law a reality to some men who heretofore winked at it; he has broken up factional wars; he has made moonshining exceedingly unpopular; he has shown the way out of crime and lawlessness. There is nothing spectacular about his methods. He has not created any new legal machinery. He has merely done the oldfashioned thing of enforcing the laws.

We do not need a lot of new machinery to stop lawlessness. We already have enough laws to convert Kentucky into a paradisc. What we need is an army of officers whose backbones are made of something else besides stems of spaghetti, who will administer our laws with promptness, thoroness and dignity. That is exactly what Judge Johnson is doing. Such men deserve the commendation and support of every citizen of the Commonwealth.

World Conditions

Hr. George Sherwood Eddy's address in the College Chapel last Sunday morning dealt largely with the present world needs in the first place, the world needs bread. The ravages and devastation of war have shaken the very economic foundation of the world. The world is struggling. Children are starving in the streets of many of the leading cities of Europe. China is in the midst of famine.

The world needs pesce. National strife, race hatred, and social upheavals are making out of the world a veritable battleground. The old order is passing, and a new day is dawning. The world looka dark today, but not as dark as it has looked after a bloody experience like the French Revolution. Three autocratic families, until this war, ruled a large part of Europe-the Romanoffs of Russia, the Hapshurgs of Austria, and the Hohenzollerns of Germany, but they have fallen forever, and ten new free republics now cover the domain of these three empires.

We talk about the Holshevikl of Russia with a feeling of hatred, but their struggles are nothing but the natural efforts of a benighted and hoodwinked people trying to find themselves. Dr. Eddy said that he expected to see men with horns and hoofs when he went into the territory of the Bolsheviki, but instead he found smooth-faced, fair-haired youths with honest souls and clear eyes, behind the Holshevik ramparts studying their books. Ninety percent of the Russian population is illiterate, have never been given a chance in the world. The Bolsheviki are sending them to school and doing everything in their power to educate them and to feed them, but at the same time are fighting relentlessly to establish themselves. Dr. Eddy's climax was reached in his declaration that only the saving power of Jesus Christ and the unhampered work of Christianity can redeem Europe. In the first place, the principle of personality, or the worth of man, must be recognized. Man is greater than a machine, and whenever interest in the welfare of an individual is manifested, a long step has been made in redeeming that man for righteousness.

The second great principle in bringing order out of chaos is that of brotherhood. Brotherhood and friendly cooperation work better, pay lietter, and are more efficient than merciless competition. Then comes the opportunity of service. Which works letter-to live to make a better world, or to look upon life as a game of grab or dollar-chasing? The great men of our time never ask the question, "What will I get out of it?"

Then, lastly, comes the principle of liberty. When the personality of man is established, and brotherhood reigns; when the principle of service has been enthroned, we will have liberty and freedom in the true sense-industrial liberty, social liberty, and religious liberty.

A Rediscovered Christianity

The following item of news has come from the Information Department of the Federation of Churches of America, including the Baptist, Methodist, Congregational, Disciples, Presbyterian, and Reform Church. Mr. Glenn Frank, Editor of the Century Magazine, speaking at the National Conference of the Methodist Church in Detroit, a few weeks ago, referred to the common fenr that modern Christian Scholarship in, "digging around the roots of primitive Christianity," would give us a "reduced Christianity." "It has now dawned upon us," he said, "that the scholars and social pioneers who have been digging around the roots of primitive Christianity the past twenty-five years have given us not a reduced Christianity, but a rediscovered Christianity; not the Christianity that has to do solely with the cultivation of private virtues in the individual, but the Christianity that has to do with the establishment of a moral order in politics as well: a rediscovered Christianity that demands a clean soul and a clean society: a rediscovered Christianity that allows no conflict of interest between the Evangelist of private interest and the Missionary of social interest: a rediscovered Christianity that looks on moral order not as a postscript added because of exigencies of the Industrial Age, but as an integral part of primitive Christianity which is related to society as well as the individual. If we are to achieve a new order instead of slumping into a new disorder, it is imperative that in the future the average citizen maintain a tolerant attitude toward opinion, a democratic attitude toward wealth and an aristocrntic attitude toward work."

Mr. Frank in his discussion will strike fear in many quarters because of the intolerant attitude toward opinion. We have reached the stage in our freedom of life that we can discuss with perfect propriety and in complete harmony with Christ, the opinions of Voltaire, Darwin, and the teachings of Confucianism. It has been perfectly legitimate for a student to study the doctrines and the teachings of Mohammed because Mohammed is recognized as a heathen from a benighted land. But to refer to what Darwin said is taboved, not because it has no virtue in it, but because it has been deemed to be the wise policy to taboo it. Mr. Frank in his speech referred to the letter of Voltaire of Helvetius. "I wholly disapprove of what you say but will defend to death your right to say it." He also referred to General Grant's demand for the release of Jefferson Davis, not because he sympathized with Jefferson Davis, but because he believed the best interest of America demanded a reconciliation as soon as possible. Right should never give quarter to wrong, but the leading thinkers today upon the subject of Christian progress are demanding a reconstructed theology that will keep pace with the rediscovery of Christianity that is taking place today.

It is absolutely beyond human conception to believe that the Apostle l'aul or Christ himself would act in every way today as he acted two thousand years ago. The fact is, the daily conduct and the method of instruction of both Jesus and Paul fit in with the life of the time in which they lived; but the great Christian principles that they enunciated are just now coming to light in the world. Christians have been groping for nearly two thousand years trying to discover the full meaning of Christ's life, and it is only where intolerance is practiced that we have a narrow life and a reduced Christianity.

We have been interested and pleased with the comments both pro and con that have been made upon The Citizen's recent editorial on a Reconstructed Theology. We take the criticism in the light in which it was given-in a Christinn way-but still hold to our point that evangelism and theology are dragging and that if the world is to be won for Christ, they must keep up with man's intellectual development which is in direct line with God's plan for the world. Let us earnestly pray that this will be done.

TURKEY MORTALITY IS AT HIGH POINT IN FIRST WEEK AFTER POULTS ARE HATCHED

If the Mother Hen Is Confined the Poults Are Always Able to Hover Under Her When They Are Cold.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture t ing them is small and the profits large The number raised in the t'nited States is gradually decreasing, howcauses, a serious one being the high mortality among the young poults. Careful management will greatly re-States department of agriculture poultry specialists.

First Week Dangerous.

The average number of poults raised under ordinary conditions is about 50 per cent of those intched out, or about 7 poults for every turkey hen. Ity far the greater part of the loss occurs when the poults are under a week old. Seldom are any lost after they are a month old naters there Is an outbrenk of disease. The high mortality among young poults is mainly ransed by exposure to dampness and cold, improper feeding, close continement, Dee, predatory nalmals, or inherent werkness. The last-named enase is the result of curelessness a strange performance on the part of in selection of purent stock.

As soon us the hatch is completed and the poults begin to run around ontside the nest the hen and brood are ready to be removed to the coopprovided for them. The enop should be well ventilated, capable of easy wilk about. There should be a separate coop for each hea and broad. and the coops should be senttered about the farm in such places as are ensity drained and where natural feed, such as tender, green vegetation (grass, clover, alfalfu, and other green feed), and insects, particularly grasshoppers, can be found. By moving the coan every day the granud will be pick up fresh, green feed inside the state of the atmosphere,

Last Friday morning at the chapel hour Dr. Carr, director of physical education in the State University, gave a talk in the upper chapel to the Normal School students Dr. Carr did not speak many minutes, but said some very important things. The students of the Normal School greatly regret that so many of its members are absent these days from the classes, lectures, ball games, dining room, etc. In fact, the only place some of their can answer "present" to the roll call is in the hospital. Breathitt Visits Berea

A thing unusual in the experience of Berea College occurred week before last, and because of a mistake falled to get into the iast issue of The Citizen. A hasketball team selected from different communities in Breathitt county was brought to Berea College against our Secondary Varsity team. The various teams in Brenthitt county, from which this special team was selected, have been organized and promoted by Raleigh V. Trosper, a graduate of our Agricultural School, who is now County Agent for that county. Those who knew Mr. Trosper in Berea are not aurprised that he is taking hold of the county in new and unusual ways. He is an enthusiast to the manner horn and goes into everything with red hot irons.

The tenm was necomparied by a number of citizens, including Prof. C. N. Akens, of Riverside Institute, and two of his teachers The team arrived in Berea on Saturday evening, and had the pleasure of attending the Berea vs. Kentucky Wesleyan game at night. Sunday was chuck full of gatherings, including an Informal reception at the President's house at four o'clock in the afternoon.

The tenm was at a disndvantage when compared with the Socondary Varsity team, because it was a acleeted team that had had very little practice as a single group, but their floor work was wonderful. They passed the ball with so much skill and ease as to bring continuous cherring from the Berea crowd, but they lacked an essential thing in baskethalf-the ability to pitch baskets. With the proper training in pitching baskets, the Breathitt county aggregation could be made a formidable competitor for our best high schools. The game was most interesting from beginning to end, altho the final score was 34-4 in favor of the Berea-

Revere Beat Him There. Hevere arrived in Lexington a haif honr before Duwes, and the latter met Hevere on the green when he arrived. Dawes had started on his ride at once after receiving his orders from Warren and had eluded the gnard at the Neck with difficulty, coming out by the longer route of Itrighton bridge and the Cambridge road and arousing all the houses in his path.

After a little delay for refreshments, flevere and Dawes rode on to Concord. About half-way aloog, near Hartwell's isvern, they met British officers, Dawes classed by the soldlers, dashed up to an empty farm house, shouting: "Hella toys, I've got two of them!"
